

HOUSTON MUSEUM of DECORATIVE ARTS

New Exhibit: History in a Bottle

How often do we use bottles? The current special exhibit at the Houston Museum of Decorative Arts features antique bottles in many sizes, shapes, and colors that are part of the museum's permanent collection.

Bottles have played a significant part in people's lives for thousands of years. Not only have they been used to hold all kinds of products ranging from beverages to patent medicines, and poisons, they have also been utilized to add decorative touches in a wide variety of settings.

Our Ms. Annie Houston found bottles to be a thing of beauty and worthy of including in her collection. Please enjoy her antique bottle collection ranging from the 1700's to mid-20th century, from all parts of the country and for some bottles the world! Hey, you can find more than just messages in a bottle... you can find a whole lot of history! Thank you from all of us here at the Houston Museum of Decorative Arts!

Kerrie Iyoob

We proudly introduce Kerrie Iyoob as Collections Manager. She is a graduate of the University of Colorado Boulder with a Master's in Museum and Field Studies. She has worked previously at the Denver Museum of Nature & Science, the University of Colorado Museum of Natural History, and Colorado Ski & Snowboard Museum. She has been performing object research, photography and cataloguing of the collection.

Hours

Wednesday- Saturday:
noon-4 p.m.

Admission

Adults: $9
Children (4-17): $3.50
Students (with current id): $5
Active Military: $5

Keeping Up with the Houston

@houstonmuseum

oustonmuseum.org